How do you pay for the services provided?

It is important for you to have a clear understanding of how we are paid for the work we do.

As a fee-for-service provider, our fee depends on the service you ask us to provide.

Our fees can be based on time, the degree of complexity of your situation, the specific service you ask us to provide or the amount you invest. Whatever method is chosen we will discuss this with you and agree on the fees in advance.

We have flexible fee structures and payment options designed to suit the needs of all clients.

Generally speaking, the fees for different services are calculated as follows:

Consulting services – for which we charge by the hour.

Strategic Financial Planning and Investment Advice – for which we charge a flat time-based preparation and presentation fee. This is based on the time we spend in meetings and in developing and delivering advice. The more complex your situation, the higher the fee is likely to be. Our minimum fee is $3,000 (+ GST) with most fees being in the range of $3,000 - $8,500 (+ GST). After our initial meeting with you, we will provide you with the scope of advice we can provide.

Implementation Services – for which we charge by the hour.

Ongoing Services – for which we charge according to the type and level of services you ask us to provide. This will be stated in the initial Statement of Advice and adjusted over time depending on your circumstances and requirements at that time.

Placement Fee - which is a percentage of funds invested, depending on the amount invested. This fee is only charged if WLM does not provide an Ongoing Service to you.

Our Financial Planning Service and Fee Guide provides more details and can be supplied upon request.

You should discuss and agree upon all fees and charges with your Adviser before asking WLM to provide any service or prepare any written advice.

Through the Statement of Advice, your Adviser will disclose what fees may apply and what WLM may receive from product providers.

How are any commissions or other benefits calculated?

A fee or commission is generally based on the amount you invest or premium you pay for an insurance product.

Different product providers design their products with different commission levels. Therefore, brokerage or commissions vary from product to product and between different product providers.

As WLM is a fee-for-service provider, we typically reduce or rebate brokerage or commissions for the benefit of our clients. However, we can receive commission from a product provider at the choice of the client.

Due to (poor) product design, in some cases it is not possible to reduce or waive commissions.

It is therefore possible that WLM may receive a brokerage, fee or commission from a product provider, which we would disclose.

Initial and ongoing commissions from insurance providers may be received by WLM. These commissions are paid to WLM by the life insurance company that issues the product that your Adviser recommends to you. This commission is included in the cost of your premium and is not an additional cost to you. As at 1st January 2020, the initial commission rate is 60% (plus GST) of the first year premium and 20% (plus GST) as an Ongoing Commission rate.

If you increase the level of cover, WLM may receive initial and ongoing commissions on the increase to your policy cost.

How are our Advisers paid?

WLM Advisers receive remuneration by means of salary and may receive a bonus. This bonus is based on the adviser's performance, the total revenue of WLM and the profitability of WLM. If the adviser is a shareholder of WLM, they may also receive dividend payments and/or achieve capital growth in respect of their shareholding.

WLM also maintain a public register of any alternative forms of remuneration that may be received from product providers.

This register is available for inspection on can be supplied within 7 days upon request.

Do we have any relationships or associations with financial product providers?

WLM Financial Services Pty Ltd is 100% privately owned. No institution or product provider has an interest in WLM. WLM Advisers have access to a broad Approved Product List and can recommend a range of investments.

WLM may also, theoretically, receive assistance in the areas of marketing, training and business development from wrap providers, investment managers and insurers; however, it is generally not our practice to accept any such assistance.

Will anyone be paid for referring me to you?

WLM do not generally pay for referrals. If this were to occur, we will tell you in the Statement of Advice who will receive a fee or commission and the amount they will receive.

Will WLM be paid for referring me to another service provider?

As a general rule, WLM does not receive any financial benefit from introducing you to specialist third party service providers.

WLM can, however, receive payment or commission from a third party, should they themselves be paid a commission. For example, through specialist mortgage brokers or real estate advisers. If this were to be the case, we would disclose any such arrangement and the amount we may receive.

Who will be your Adviser?

An Adviser will be appointed to you upon request or based on your particular needs. For example, if you require financial planning advice, your Adviser may be different than if you require accounting or tax advice. In fact, it may be possible for you to have more than one Adviser at WLM.

You will be provided with detailed information about your Adviser, including their qualifications, experience and any other relevant details.
